Capital One

Dear Capital One Hiring Team,

What excites me most is helping a business do what it didn't think it could. That's what draws me to the Senior Director, Technical Program Management role at Capital One, and in particular getting more of your proprietary AI from concept into production across every line of business, which is as much a program challenge as a technical one.

At Ripple, I started with four project managers who couldn't keep up with customer demand. That team grew into a global organization, and the result I point to is that banks could go live on RippleNet in eight weeks instead of eight months, as the network grew past 200 members. Along the way we built programs and tools that met customer needs without continually adding headcount.

Today I lead Engineering Infrastructure & Internal Services at SingleStore with the same mindset. I give people clear direction, build what the business needs, and change course when a better opportunity shows up. I'll retire a structure I built the day it stops paying for itself. We multiplied engineering velocity by 5x and cut internal cloud spend in half.

The pattern holds at other scales. I led a $20M program across multiple sites and vendors, and I delivered more than $2M in cost efficiencies at a multinational software company.

I'd like to hear where you want to take Capital One and talk about how I can help you get there faster.

Best,

Casey Caster
