Cohere

Dear Cohere Hiring Team,

What excites me most is helping a business do what it didn't think it could. That's what draws me to the VP of Services, Customer Success & Support role at Cohere, and in particular North 2: when a platform deploys privately on-prem, in the cloud or fully air-gapped, every large customer becomes its own implementation, and the post-sales team decides how fast that customer's workforce adopts it.

At Ripple, I started with four project managers who couldn't keep up with customer demand. That team grew into a global organization that delivered more than 800 implementations, and banks could go live on RippleNet in eight weeks instead of eight months, as the network grew past 200 members. Along the way we built programs and tools that met customer needs without continually adding headcount. Before Ripple, I led customer success at Engajer, where we held retention at 85% and won back 60% of dormant accounts.

Today I lead Engineering Infrastructure & Internal Services at SingleStore, a cloud-native database company, with the same mindset. I give people clear direction, build what the business needs, and change course when a better opportunity shows up. I'll retire a structure I built the day it stops paying for itself. When a strategic partner program was falling apart, I stepped in and led it to successful delivery, and it now brings in more than $30M in recurring ARR. I also run our GenAI adoption and governance program, including Claude Code across the development stack, so I know from the buyer's side what it takes to get an enterprise to put AI into daily work.

The pattern holds at other scales. I led a $20M program across multiple sites and vendors, and I delivered more than $2M in cost efficiencies at a multinational software company.

I'd like to hear where you want to take Cohere and talk about how I can help you get there faster.

Best,

Casey Caster
